

ABOUT ALL RARE HERBS

We are growers of herbs and other rare plants on our farm/ nursery in the hinterland of the Sunshine Coast in Queensland. Our cultivation practices are organic and have been so for over 30 years - organic practices are essential to maintain the medicinal and other properties of our seed, live roots and plants.

Our aim is to provide to our customers a balanced selection of herbs, from the everyday to the rare and unusual. Of course we cannot include every known herb in our nursery, however we are recognised as a source for difficult to obtain herbs.

We publish a catalogue of the plants available for purchase. The catalogue contains a description of each plants use for ceremonial, culinary, medicinal or ornamental purposes as well as cultivation notes. There is an extensive cross-referencing of common and botanical names. We include this level of detail because of the increasing interest in the properties and benefits of using herbs.

The format of a product catalogue does not permit extensive discussion of individual herbs and their uses. To supply more information a different format needed to be utilised

We are now pleased to be able to present "Herbology". Herbology is a magazine whereby more detailed and extensive information on herbs may be presented.

ABOUT HERBOLOGY

Herbology is a magazine about herbs.

Published quarterly, Herbology is full to brim of articles and information on herbs, their cultivation and their uses.

Most herbs have multiple uses. After all, a herb is defined as being a useful plant, and to be full of use is surely to be used for many purposes. Herbology is dedicated to supplying articles and information about the many uses of herbs.

Herbology not only looks at the practical and local use of herbs, but also incorporates such fields as local weeds (most of which are herbs), wild vegetables, aboriginal use of herbs and the nutritional and / or medicinal aspects of food sources.
